BRIEF IN SUPPORT OF MOTION TO DISMISS
AMENDED COMPLAINT
ON BEHALF OF DEFENDANT

COMES NOW Defendant, JANE ROE (hereinafter “Roe”) by and through her Attorney of Record, Lynae Tucker Chellew, and submits this Brief in Support of her Motion to Dismiss pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P.
12(b)(1) and 12(b)(6).

INTRODUCTION

This Motion arises out of the filing of the Plaintiff's Amended Complaint wherein Defendant Roe is the named Defendant in Count V, Defamation and Defamation Per Se, alone. Causes of Action I-IV which raise an issue of federal question are not lodged against Ms. Roe and are instead lodged at the other Defendants. Filing No. 18.

On or about October 23, 2023, Ms. Roe became the victim of “stealthing”, a form of sexual assault wherein during a sexual encounter the other party removes the contraceptive barrier without the other person's consent.<sup>1</sup> In October of 2023, both Ms. Roe and Mr. John Doe (hereinafter “Doe”) were students at the University of Nebraska, Lincoln pursuing their academic and athletic passions as student athletes. During the Spring of 2023, Roe and Doe met and found they shared a physical and romantic interest in each other which progressed over portions of both the Spring 2023 and Fall 2023 semesters. Throughout this period, prior to the assault in October, Ms. Roe and Mr. Doe engaged in consensual sexual interactions. Until the assault giving rise to this case, the parties used condoms unless otherwise explicitly consented to by Ms. Roe.

Mr. Doe continued to date Ms. Roe as well as other people well into the Fall semester of 2023. Despite this, on or about October 22, 2023, Roe and Doe attended a party together wherein both parties consumed alcohol to a level of intoxication. In the early hours of the morning, October 23, 2023, Mr. Doe accompanied Ms. Roe to her apartment. Ms. Roe and Mr. Doe engaged in consensual kissing and consensual physical touch excluding contact with Ms. Roe's vaginal area. Ms. Roe declined to engage in sexual intercourse with Mr. Doe, in part, due to active menstruation. Mr. Doe became increasingly persistent that he had come over for sexual intercourse and that he could convince Ms. Roe to engage in sexual intercourse with him. Mr. Doe's badgering, coercion, and emotional manipulation resulted in the parties engaging in sexual intercourse with the use of a condom. At some point, without Ms. Roe's consent, Mr. Doe removed the condom, the condition precedent to Ms. Roe's consent, and proceeded to penetrate Ms. Roe, vaginally.

Ms. Roe felt trapped in her own room where she was alone with the respondent and was unsure of where her roommates were. Further, she was acutely aware that she could not fight him since he was much stronger. It was not until after intercourse ceased that Ms. Roe became fully aware of Mr. Doe's independent choice to "stealth" Ms. Roe. Ms. Roe emotionally responded to this violation of trust and vulnerability and ended the romantic relationship with Mr. Doe after the October 2023 assault—immediately ending all trust and romantic interest she had in him.

Following the assault, Ms. Roe changed her behavior to avoid seeing Mr. Doe in and around the athletics complex. In February of 2024, after Ms. Roe confided in her roommate about her assault, her roommate encouraged her to inquire into whether she could receive support from the University through the Title IX process. Ms. Roe disclosed the assault to the Assistant Director of Athletic Compliance who then referred Ms. Roe to the Title IX office at the University. Shortly thereafter, Ms. Roe filed a formal complaint with the University Title IX office. Ms. Roe's complaint was made approximately 120 days after the assault, well within the University reporting recommendations and in compliance with the Federal Title IX Regulations.<sup>2</sup> Despite being on track to graduate in December 2024, Ms. Roe transferred to another school because of the assault and her inability to feel safe on the same campus as Mr. Doe knowing the Title IX matter would not be resolved prior to the beginning of the Fall 2024 semester. This transfer resulted in a delay in her graduation date until August 2025.

After Ms. Roe's formal Title IX Complaint, the parties attempted informal resolution on more than one occasion, with no success. Ms. Roe actively participated in the Title IX investigation through interviews and providing evidence to the investigator. She also truthfully testified at the Title IX hearing held on September 22, 2024. Mr. Doe declined to participate in the investigation but did participate in the final hearing. Following a hearing, Mr. Doe was found responsible for Sexual Harassment and Sexual Assault, specifically Rape, through the Title IX process and was expelled from the University as a sanction.

Mr. Doe appealed the University's decision alleging procedural irregularities, abuse of discretion, and clearly erroneous factual finding. Mr. Doe's appeal was unsuccessful. It was not until then that he proceeded to file the above captioned retaliatory lawsuit encompassing

STANDARDS OF REVIEW

I. Supplemental Jurisdiction

"[J]urisdiction is power to declare the law,' and '[w]ithout jurisdiction the court cannot proceed at all in any cause.'" Ruhrgas AG v. Marathon Oil Co., 526 U.S. 574, 577, 119 S. Ct. 1563, 143 L. Ed. 2d 760 (1999) (second alteration in original) (quoting Steel Co. v. Citizens for a Better Env't, 523 U.S. 83, 94, 118 S. Ct. 1003, 140 L. Ed. 2d 210 (1998)). Federal courts have limited jurisdiction. See Great Lakes Gas Transmission Ltd. P'ship v. Essar Steel Minnesota LLC, 843 F.3d 325, 328 (8th Cir. 2016). "[A]ny claim that is not compulsory" is permissive. Fed. R. Civ. P. 13(b). A permissive counterclaim requires "a basis of jurisdiction independent from that supporting the main claim." Shelter Mut. Ins. Co. v. Pub. Water Supply Dist. No. 7 of Jefferson Cnty., 747 F.2d 1195, 1197 (8th Cir. 1984).

encourages individuals to report possible sexual misconduct within one hundred and eighty (180) calendar days of the last occurrence of the concerning conduct." Id.

A motion to dismiss under Rule 12(b)(1) "challenges whether the district court has subject matter jurisdiction to hear the matter."

Johnson v. United States, 534 F.3d 958, 964 (8th Cir. 2008). "A court deciding a motion under Rule 12(b)(1) must distinguish between a 'facial attack' and a 'factual attack' on jurisdiction." Carlsen v. GameStop, Inc., 833 F.3d 903, 908 (8th Cir. 2016) (quoting Osborn v. United States, 918 F.2d 724, 729 n.6 (8th Cir. 1990)). "In a facial attack, 'a defendant asserts that the complaint fails to allege sufficient facts to support subject matter jurisdiction;'" Davis v. Anthony, Inc., 886 F.3d 674, 679 (8th Cir. 2018) (quoting Kerns v. United States, 585 F.3d 187, 193 (4th Cir. 2009)). Further, "[p]leading jurisdiction requires only 'a short and plain statement of the grounds for the court's jurisdiction,' while pleading the merits requires not just 'a short and plain statement of the claim,' but one that 'show[s] that the pleader is entitled to relief.'" Huizenga v. Indep. Sch. Dist. No. 11, 44 F.4th 806, 811 (8th Cir. 2022) (comparing Fed. R. Civ. P. 8(a)(2) with Fed. R. Civ. P. 8(a)(1)). "In a facial attack, 'the court restricts itself to the face of the pleadings, and the non-moving party receives the same protections as it would defending against a motion brought under Rule 12(b)(6)'" Carlsen, 833 F.3d at 908 (quoting Osborn, 918 F.2d at 729 n.6). To avoid dismissal under Rule 12(b)(6), "[a] complaint must contain facts that, if 'accepted as true, . . . state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face.'" Liscomb v. Boyce, 954 F.3d 1151, 1153-54 (8th Cir. 2020) (quoting Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678, 129 S. Ct. 1937, 173 L. Ed. 2d 868 (2009)). "Threadbare recitals of the elements of a cause of action, supported by mere conclusory statements," are not sufficient. Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678, 129 S. Ct. 1937, 173 L. Ed. 2d 868 (2009). In applying this standard, the Court must assume the facts in the complaint to be true and take all reasonable inferences from those facts in the light most favorable to the plaintiff. Morton v. Becker, 793 F.2d 185, 187 (8th Cir. 1986); see Waters v. Madson, 921 F.3d 725, 734 (8th Cir. 2019). "However, [the Court] need not accept as true a plaintiff's conclusory allegations or legal conclusions drawn from the facts." Glick v. W. Power Sports, Inc., 944 F.3d 714, 717 (8th Cir. 2019).

The doctrine of supplemental jurisdiction is traditionally "a doctrine of discretion, not of plaintiff's right." United Mine Workers v. Gibbs, 383 U.S. 715, 726 (1966). As the party asserting subject-matter jurisdiction in federal court, Plaintiffs bear the burden of proving jurisdiction is proper. See, e.g., Compart's Boar Store, Inc. v. United States, 829 F.3d 600, 604 (8th Cir. 2016).

The Federal courts can exercise supplemental jurisdiction over state-law claims that "are so related to claims in the action" that they are "part of the same case or controversy" as the federal claims. 28 U.S.C. § 1367(a). In determining whether a claim arises out of the same case or controversy, the Court must determine whether the state law claim arises out of the "common nucleus of operative facts" as the substantive federal claims. Parker v. Scrap Metals Processors Inc., 468 F.3d 733, 743 (11th Cir. 2006) (citing Gibbs, 383 U.S. at 725). "Claims derive from a common nucleus of operative fact if they are 'such that a plaintiff would ordinarily be expected to try them all in one judicial proceeding.'" Benchmark Ins. Co. v. SUNZ Ins. Co., 36 F.4th 766, 771 (8th Cir. 2022) (quoting Gibbs, 383 U.S. at 725). "In exercising its discretion, the district court should consider factors such as judicial economy, convenience, fairness, and comity." Brown v. Mortgage Electronic Registration Systems, Inc., 738 F.3d 926, 933 (8th Cir. 2013). "Courts also look at whether there is a 'discernable overlap' between the operative facts underlying the federal and state claims." Manderson v. Fairview Health Servs., No. 21-1797 (JRT/TNL), 2022 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 117447, at *23 (D. Minn. July 5, 2022) (citing Hunt v. Up N. Plastics, Inc., 980 F. Supp. 1042, 1044 (D. Minn. 1997)). Whether the Federal court possess supplemental jurisdiction is fact-based and, on a case-by-case basis. See Achtman v. Kirby, McInerney & Squire, LLP, 464 F.3d 328, 335 (2d Cir. 2006). "[If] a federal court concludes that it lacks subject-matter jurisdiction, the court must dismiss the complaint in its entirety." Arbaugh v. Y&H Corp., 546 U.S. 500, 514, 126 S. Ct. 1235, 163 L. Ed. 2d 920 (2009) (Thomas, J., dissenting) (quoting 10A C. Wright, A. Miller, & M. Kane, Federal Practice and Procedure § 2713, p. 239 (3d ed. 1998))."

II. Failure to State a Claim

"Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 8 requires that a complaint present 'a short and plain statement of the claim showing that the pleader is entitled to relief.'" Braden v. Wal-Mart Stores, Inc., 588 F.3d 585, 594 (8th Cir. 2009). "In order to meet this standard and survive a motion to dismiss under Rule 12(b)(6), 'a complaint must contain sufficient factual matter, accepted as true, to 'state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face.'"" Id. (citing Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 129 S. Ct. 1937, 1949 (2009) (quoting Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 127 S. Ct. 1955 (2007))). "The plausibility standard requires a plaintiff to show at the pleading stage that success on the merits is more than a ‘sheer possibility.’” Id. “A complaint states a plausible claim for relief if its ‘factual content...allows the court to draw the reasonable inference that the defendant is liable for the misconduct alleged.’” Id. (quoting Iqbal, 129 S. Ct. at 1949). “[T]he court must take the plaintiff’s factual allegations as true.” Id. “This tenet does not apply, however, to legal conclusions or ‘formulaic recitation of the elements of a cause of action;’ such allegations may properly be set aside.” Id. “In addition, some factual allegations may be so indeterminate that they require ‘further factual enhancement’ in order to state a claim.” Id. “Ultimately, evaluation of a complaint upon a motion to dismiss is ‘a context-specific task that requires the reviewing court to draw on its judicial experience and common sense.’” Id. (quoting Iqbal, 129 S. Ct. at 1950).

ARGUMENT

Plaintiff’s attempts to shoehorn a state law claim for Defamation into this federal suit are unsuccessful for lack of supplemental subject-matter jurisdiction over Defendant Roe, as well as for failure to state a claim. For that reason, the Court, in its discretion, should find for Roe, and dismiss the Complaint against her in its entirety.

I. Lack of Jurisdiction

In determining whether to exercise supplemental jurisdiction over a state law claim, the federal court must first determine whether the movant is making a “facial” or “factual” attack of the alleged jurisdictional authority. In this matter, Ms. Roe brings a facial attack due to Plaintiff’s failure to connect any federal law claim to the same factual basis out of which the state law claim arises as well as Plaintiff’s failure to allege facts which may lead to a plausible outcome in the Plaintiff’s favor.

Next, the federal court then must consider if the federal and state claims are closely enough connected to be “arising out of the common nucleus of operative fact.” United Mine Workers v. Gibbs, 383 U.S. 715, 722, 86 S. Ct. 1130, 1137-38, 16 L. Ed. 2d 218 (1966). Plaintiff’s case or controversy, for the purposes of this analysis, appears to be clear and cleanly differentiated between the facts giving rise to the federal claims and those giving rise to the state claim.

Plaintiff’s federal causes of action and the allegations the Plaintiff relies on to support each claim are summarized as follows:

COUNT I: Violation of Title IX. Plaintiff alleges, “Nebraska discriminated against Mr. Doe on the basis of sex by granting preferential treatment to his female accuser throughout the investigation and adjudication of her claim and manifesting prejudice against Mr. Doe as a male throughout the same.” Filing No. 1 at ¶ 105. “Nebraska’s decision to discipline Mr. Doe and issue sanctions against him was motivated and caused by its bias against him on the basis of his male sex.” Filing No. 1 at ¶ 108.

COUNT II: Violation of the Due Process Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution.

Plaintiff alleges, “Mr. Doe had a property interest in his contractual relationship with Nebraska as a tuition paying student in good standing. As Mr. Doe did not commit a policy violation, he had a legitimate expectation in his continued education concurrent with his educational benefits.” Filing No. 1 at ¶ 116. “Mr. Doe had a liberty interest in his reputation and status as student in good standing... Defendants erroneously stigmatized Mr. Doe as a student who committed a sexual misconduct violation and effected a change in his legal status by removing him from good standing with the University.” Filing No. 1 at ¶ 117. “Defendants, by their unlawful actions, altered Mr. Doe’s legal status as student in good standing by issuing an expulsion.” Filing No. 1 at ¶ 118. “Defendants harmed Mr. Doe’s liberty interest in his reputation by their erroneous determination that he committed sexual harassment and sexual misconduct, which impairs his education prospects and will forever harm him when he applies to jobs that require background checks or character and fitness evaluations.” Filing No. 1 at ¶ 119.

“Defendants Counley and Anaya, acting on behalf of Nebraska, deprived Mr. Doe of his due process rights, including the right to an impartial decisionmaker.” Filing No. 1 at ¶ 120).

COUNT III: Violation of the Equal Protection Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution.

Plaintiff alleges, “[t]hroughout the Title IX process at Nebraska, Mr. Doe was treated differently than Roe on the basis of sex.” Filing No. 1 at ¶ 129.

COUNT IV: Violation of the Equal Protection Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution.

Plaintiff alleges, “[t]hroughout the Title IX process at Nebraska, Mr. Laing was treated differently than Roe on the basis of sex.” Filing No. 1 at ¶ 137).

After review of the allegations plead regarding the federal causes of action, the underlying controversy relating to Claims I through IV, are whether Mr. Doe was discriminated against on the basis of sex and whether Mr. Doe was deprived of his constitutional rights through the procedural steps of the Title IX process.

Regarding Plaintiff's only state claim and only claim against Ms. Roe, COUNT IV Defamation and Defamation Per Se, the Plaintiff alleges, in relevant part, "[i]n communications with the Title IX Office, Defendant Roe purposely caused to be published false and defamatory statements, both directly and by implication, about Mr. Doe with the intent on harming Mr. Doe." Filing No. 1 at ¶ 144. "Specifically, Ms. Roe falsely alleged to the investigator and Title IX hearing panel that Mr. Doe had sexually assaulted or raped her and forced her to engage in sexual intercourse without her consent." Filing No. 1 at ¶ 145. "Ms. Roe knew these statements were false when she made them." Filing No. 1 at ¶ 146. "Defendant Roe, as alleged herein, made her statements with the design and intent of falsely painting Mr. Doe as a sexual predator. Defendant did so in a context that would cause reasonable listeners and readers to infer her intended defamatory meaning." Filing No. 1 at ¶ 147. "Defendant Roe's statements were defamatory per se because they falsely accused Mr. Doe of sexual harassment and misconduct, which at a minimum, prejudices Mr. Doe in his pursuit of his chosen profession or trade." Filing No. 1 at ¶ 149. "Defendant Roe published the lies to the University, specifically the investigator and Title IX hearing panel.”

Filing No. 1 at ¶ 150. It is clear that the underlying controversy relating to the state law claim, defamation, is whether Ms. Roe’s statements regarding the sexual assault by Mr. Doe is false.<sup>3</sup>

The allegations contained in the state law claim are not closely related to the case or controversy plead as the basis for the Plaintiff’s federal causes of action. See Riazi v. Ally Fin., Inc., No. 4:17CV1705JCH, 2017 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 157011 (E.D. Mo. Sep. 26, 2017) (holding that supplemental jurisdiction does not apply wherein the proof needed to establish the federal claim is different from the proof needed to establish the state claim).

In the ordinary case, a defamation claim has four elements: (1) a false and defamatory statement concerning the plaintiff, (2) an unprivileged publication to a third party, (3) fault amounting to at least negligence on the part of the publisher, and (4) either actionability of the statement irrespective of special harm or the existence of special harm caused by the publication.

Steinhausen v. Homeservices of Neb., Inc., 289 Neb. 927, 939-40 857

N.W.2d 816 (2015). The evidence required to prove the aforementioned

<sup>3</sup> Neb. Rev. Stat. § 25-840 (Reissue 2008) provides that in actions for libel or slander: “The truth in itself and alone shall be a complete defense unless it shall be proved by the plaintiff that the publication was made with actual malice. Actual malice shall not be inferred or presumed from publication.” The Nebraska Supreme Court has elements is limited to Ms. Roe's statements, the truth of those statements, and to whom those statements were made. In contrast, for the Plaintiff to prevail on his gender-discrimination based claims, he "must show either direct evidence of discrimination or evidence that is sufficient to create an inference of discrimination under the McDonnell Douglas burden shifting framework." Fatemi v. White, 775 F.3d 1022, 1040 (8th Cir. 2015) (quoting Butler v. Crittenden Cnty., 708 F.3d 1044, 1050 (8th Cir. 2013)). "Direct evidence is 'evidence showing a specific link between the alleged discriminatory animus and the challenged decision, sufficient to support a finding by a reasonable fact finder that an illegitimate criterion actually motivated the adverse . . . action.'" Holmes v. Trinity Health, 729 F.3d 817, 821 (8th Cir. 2013). The evidence in this case regarding gender discrimination claims would be limited to that of the other Defendants' actions and motives. Ms. Roe's alleged statements are wholly irrelevant to whether the other defendants discriminated against Mr. Doe and therefore does not rise to the level that the claims would be expected to be tried together by either the Courts or the parties.

defined "actual malice" in this context as "hate, spite, or ill will." Turner v. Welliver, 226 Neb. 275, 411 N.W.2d 298, 309 (1987).

As it relates to Mr. Doe's claim for due process violations in Title IX, to allege such a claim, a plaintiff "must plead: '(1) facts sufficient to cast doubt as to the accuracy of the outcome of the disciplinary proceeding; and (2) a causal connection between the flawed outcome and gender bias.'" Doe v. Univ. of St. Thomas, 240 F. Supp. 3d 984, 990 n.1 (D. Minn. 2017) (quoting Sahm v. Miami Univ., 110 F. Supp. 3d 774, 777-78 (S.D. Ohio 2015)). The "core of the concept [of substantive due process is] protection against arbitrary action" by the government. Putnam v. Keller, 332 F.3d 541, 547 (8th Cir. 2003) (quoting Cnty of Sacramento v. Lewis, 523 U.S. 833, 845 (1998)). "While due process protection in the substantive sense limits what the government may do in both its legislative, and its executive capacities, criteria to identify what is fatally arbitrary differ depending on whether it is legislation or a specific act of a governmental officer that is at issue." Lewis, 523 U.S. at 846 (internal citations omitted). "In other words, to establish a substantive due process claim, [Plaintiff] has to show that the [UNL] officials' arbitrary action 'shocks the conscience.'" Doe v. Univ. of Neb., 451 F. Supp. 3d 1062 (D. Neb. 2020) (Internal citations omitted). The evidence in this case regarding Plaintiff's constitutional claims would also be limited to that of the other Defendants' actions and motives and

Ms. Roe's alleged statements are wholly irrelevant to whether the other defendants violated any constitutional right of Mr. Doe and therefore does not rise to the level that the claims would be expected to be tried together by either the Courts or the parties.

For the above reasons, Defendant Roe respectfully requests the Court find the state-law allegations against her are not closely connected to the federal claims and therefore should be dismissed for lack of subject matter jurisdiction.

II. Failure to State a Claim

As discussed above,

[i]n the ordinary case, a defamation claim has four elements: (1) a false and defamatory statement concerning the plaintiff, (2) an unprivileged publication to a third party, (3) fault amounting to at least negligence on the part of the publisher, and (4) either actionability of the statement irrespective of special harm or the existence of special harm caused by the publication.

Steinhausen v. Homeservices of Neb., Inc., 289 Neb. 927, 857 N.W. 2d 816 (2015). Even when the facts alleged by Mr. Doe are taken in the light most favorable to him, his Complaint fails to allege the necessary facts to show plausible success on his claim due to Ms. Roe's statements and publication being covered by privilege. Without plausible success on all elements, Plaintiff's claim must be dismissed for failure to state a claim.

For that reason, Defendant Roe turns to the second element of Defamation.

A. An unprivileged publication to a third party

“The term ‘unprivileged’ refers to the alleged defamer's inability to demonstrate that he was in some way “privileged” to make the defamatory communication.” See Joseph v. Connor 74 V.I. 101, 111 (Super. Ct. 2021). See also Restatement (Second) of Torts §§ 557, 558(b), 568(1), (2), 583-592A, 593-598, 599-605A. “The types of privilege defenses available fall into two categories, ‘absolute privileges,’ and ‘conditional privileges.’” Joseph, 74 V.I. at 111. “Privilege, however, can be abused in such a way as to subject to privileged defamer to liability despite his privilege.”<sup>4</sup> Id. “A conditional privilege against liability for defamation arises in settings where society has an interest in promoting free, but not absolutely unfettered, speech. See, e.g., Onat v. Penobscot Bay Medical Center, 574 A.2d 872, 874 (Me. 1990) (hospital peer review); Gautschi v. Maisel, 565 A.2d 1009, 1011 (Me. 1989) (tenure review). See generally Restatement § 566, comment b. See also Lester v. Powers, 596 A.2d 65

<sup>4</sup> “If the publication is made for the purpose of protecting the interest in question, the fact that the publication is inspired in part by resentment or indignation at the supposed misconduct of the person defamed does not constitute an abuse of the privilege.” See Heidi Nelson v. Lake Elmo Bank, 75 F.4th 932, 943 (8th Cir. 2023).

(Me. 1991). “A communication is privileged if made bona fide by one who has an interest in the subject matter to one who also has an interest in it or stands in such relation that it is a reasonable duty, or is proper, for the writer to give the information.” Kloch v. Ratcliffe, 221 Neb. 241, 375 N.W.2d 916 (1985); Dangberg v. Sears, Roebuck & Co., 198 Neb. 234, 252 N.W.2d 168 (1977); Hall v. Rice, 117 Neb. 813, 223 N.W. 4 (1929) (citing Wise v. Brotherhood of Locomotive F. and E., 252 F. 961 (8th Cir. 1918)).

Ms. Roe’s statements regarding her having been sexually assaulted and made, both, in the process of pursuing the benefit of Title IX, made to the proper individuals are protected by both absolute and conditional privilege.

i. Absolute

“The doctrine of absolute privilege bars claims for libel or slander involving statements made in judicial proceedings as well as in quasi-judicial proceedings where the matter has some relation to the proceeding.” Brooks v. Pauli, No. A-17-716, 2018 Neb. App. LEXIS 174 (Ct. App. June 19, 2018) (citing McKinney v. Okoye, 282 Neb. 880, 806 N.W.2d 571 (2011)); See Beckenhauer v. Predoehl, 215 Neb. 347, 349, 338 N.W.2d 618, 620 (1983) (“[i]t is a well-established rule that libelous matter in a pleading which is relevant to, or has some reasonable relation to, the judicial proceeding in which it is filed is absolutely privileged"). Title IX is a quasi-judicial proceeding and is thus covered by the umbrella of absolute privilege.

In determining whether a proceeding is quasi-judicial, the Court must take into consideration "whether the proceeding has 'all of the trappings of an adjudicatory tribunal,' is 'designed to adjust the rights or liabilities of the parties before it,' and features an 'impartial decisionmaker'" (footnotes omitted). Van der Stelt v. Georgetown Univ., Civil Action No. 23 - 2212 (LLA), 2025 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 61009 (D.D.C. Mar. 31, 2025) (quoting Park v. Brahmhatt, 234 A.3d 1212, 1215 (D.C. 2020)). Judicial privilege should be applied when "the statements were made in contemplation of litigation to the very individuals who would have an interest in the outcome of such litigation." Id.

The Title IX Regulations published by the Department of Education specifically lay out rules which are to be followed which run adjacent to the underpinnings of the judicial system including: notice requirements<sup>5</sup>, evidence<sup>6</sup>, hearing procedures<sup>7</sup>, impartiality<sup>8</sup>, privilege<sup>9</sup>,

<sup>6</sup> See C.F.R. § 106.45(b)(5)(vi) (stating that evidence subject to inspection and review must include inculpatory and exculpatory evidence whether obtained from a party or from another source). 34 C.F.R. § 106.45(b)(vi) requires review and inspection of evidence "directly related to the allegations." That universe of evidence is not innocent until proven otherwise<sup>10</sup>, and the opportunity to appeal adverse findings.<sup>11</sup> Similar to the facts in Doe v. Univ. of Ark.-Fayetteville, No. 5:18-CV-05182, 2019 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 57889 (W.D. Ark. Apr. 3, 2019), where the Court found that the Title IX proceeding was quasi-judicial, the proceedings in this matter included hearing panel members in a position where an adverse decision on their part may result in a lawsuit for damages by disappointed students, such as the instant claim. Further, “Title IX regulations and the due process clause of the Fourteenth Amendment work in conjunction to ensure that hearing panel members and university officials act constitutionally in adjudicating sexual assault claims.” Id. For these reasons, Title IX is a quasi-judicial proceeding affording Ms. Roe absolute privilege therefore element two of Defamation cannot be met in this matter.

screened for relevance, but rather is measured by whether it is “directly related to the allegations.” However, the investigative report must summarize “relevant” evidence, and thus at that point the rape shield protections would apply to preclude inclusion of the investigative report of irrelevant evidence.

<sup>8</sup> C.F.R. § 106.45(b)(1) requires recipients to adopt a grievance process that requires Title IX Coordinators, investigators, decision-makers, and persons who facilitate informal resolutions to be free from conflicts of interest and bias and trained to serve impartially without prejudging the facts at issue.

ii. Conditional

Relevant here, the Restatement (Second) of Torts § 594 states:

“[a]n occasion makes a publication conditionally privileged if the circumstances induce a correct or reasonable belief that (a) there is information that affects a sufficiently important interest of the publisher, and (b) the recipient's knowledge of the defamatory matter will be of service in the lawful protection of the interest.”

In Nelson v. Lake Elmo Bank, the Court held that the circumstances there induced “a reasonable belief that the incident with Nelson affected a sufficiently important interest to Alvarado—her job. Alvarado reasonably believed that her family's knowledge of Nelson's conduct would help her decide whether to report the incident to her employer—helping to protect her job. . . . Alvarado's statements to her family and boyfriend were found to be conditionally privileged.” 75 F.4th 932 (8th Cir. 2023) (internal citations omitted). Similarly, in this case, Ms. Roe had a sufficiently important interest in her education and disclosure of the allegations against Mr. Doe were done so through a confidential, governmentally created process intended to prevent sexual harassment. A reasonable inference can be made that the disclosure by Ms. Roe was made, at least in part, with the intent of availing herself of the intended benefit of the Title IX process. For those reasons, Ms. Roe's statements were conditionally privileged and Mr. Doe is unable to plausibly meet the standard required for the second element of Defamation.

Although Nebraska has very limited caselaw on this issue, the state and federal Courts across the country have opined on similar issues for nearly 50 years. "The First Amendment prohibits public officials or public figures from recovering damages for defamatory falsehoods concerning issues of public interest and concern unless they prove 'that the statement was made with 'actual malice' -- that is, with knowledge that it was false or with reckless disregard of whether it was false or not.'" *Nelson Auto Ctr., Inc. v. "More commonly, an individual voluntarily injects himself or is drawn into a particular public controversy and thereby becomes a public figure for a limited range of issues." Gertz v. Robert Welch, Inc., 418 U.S. 323, 347, 351, 94 S. Ct. 2997, 41 L. Ed. 2d 789 (1974). Further,

"Individuals who do not seek publicity or consent to it, but through their own conduct or otherwise become a subject of public interest, may become limited public figures. Those who commit crime or are accused of it may wish to avoid publicity, but are nevertheless persons of public interest, concerning whom the public is entitled to be informed."

"In the second stage, we determine the nature and extent of a plaintiff's participation in a public controversy by considering three factors: 'first, the extent to which participation in the controversy is voluntary; second, the extent to which there is access to channels of effective communication in order to counteract false statements; and third, the prominence of the role played in the public controversy.'" Gertz, 418 U.S. at 344-45. See also Wolston v. Reader's Digest Assoc., Inc., 443 U.S. 157, 165-68, 99 S. Ct. 2701, 61 L. Ed. 2d 450 (1979)).

i. Public Controversy

"The First Amendment prohibits public officials or public figures from recovering damages for defamatory falsehoods concerning issues of public interest and concern unless they prove that the statement was made with 'actual malice' — that is, with knowledge that it was false or with reckless disregard of whether it was false or not." Nelson Auto Ctr., Inc. v. Multimedia Holdings Corp., 951 F.3d 952, 956 (8th Cir. 2020) (cleaned up) (quoting New York Times Co. v. Sullivan, 376 U.S. 254, 279-80, 84 S. Ct. 710, 11 L. Ed. 2d 686 (1964)).<sup>16</sup>

Here, sexual assault on college campuses is a matter of public interest. The Supreme Court has stated that "speech addresses matters of public concern 'when it can be fairly considered as relating to any matter of political, social, or other concern to the community' or when the subject is 'of general interest and of value and concern to the public.'" Fredin v. Middlecamp, 500 F. Supp. 3d 752 (D. Minn. 2020) (Internal citations omitted). The content of the speech in Fredin v. Middlecamp addressed harassment and rape, and more specifically, the subject of women coming forward to share their experiences in this regard. Id. The

<sup>16</sup> See also Moreno v. Crookston Times Printing Co., 610 N.W.2d 321, 329 (Minn. 2000) (defining "actual malice" and noting that "it is important to distinguish between 'actual malice' and 'common law malice'").

Medlin court held that the overall subject of the alleged defamatory statement, sexual harassment and rape, “is a topic of public interest to society at large, rather than simply a matter of private concern.” 500 F. Supp. 3d 752 (D. Minn. 2020).

ii. Plaintiff's Participation

The Court must determine the “nature and extent of a plaintiff's participation in a public controversy.” See Thomas M. Cooley Law Sch. v. Kurzon Strauss, LLP, 759 F.3d 522 (6th Cir. 2014). By Plaintiff's own statements, Plaintiff and Roe attended a party wherein Roe consumed alcohol<sup>17</sup>, Roe testified that she had been drinking excessively<sup>18</sup>, Plaintiff engaged in sexual intercourse with Roe<sup>19</sup>, during which he removed the condom<sup>20</sup>. His choice to engage in sexual intercourse with an intoxicated woman without the use of a condom plainly meets the requirement to show that he injected himself into the controversy at the crux of the alleged defamation and played a role in that controversy.

iii. Actual Malice

If a plaintiff is determined to be a public official, public figure, or limited-purpose public figure, then the plaintiff has the burden of establishing by clear and convincing evidence that the defamatory statement was made with "actual malice" -- that is, with knowledge that it was false or with reckless disregard of whether it was false or not." N.Y. Times Co. v. Sullivan, 376 U.S. 254, 280 (1964). "Actual malice 'may be alleged generally,' but 'to make out a plausible malice claim, a plaintiff must still lay out enough facts from which malice might reasonably be inferred.'" Id. at 958 (citing Fed. R. Civ. P. 9(b) (first quote); Schatz v. Republican State Leadership Comm., 669 F.3d 50, 58 (1st Cir. 2012) (second quote)). Therefore, a complaint "must allege 'enough fact[s] to raise a reasonable expectation that discovery will reveal evidence'" that a statement was published knowing it was false or reckless disregard for whether it was false. Id. Miljas v. Greg Cohen Promotions, LLC, 536 F. Supp. 3d 409 (S.D. Iowa 2021). Plaintiff fails to meet the pleading requirements for a plausible finding of actual malice.

For the above reasons, Defendant Roe respectfully requests the Court find Plaintiff failed to state a claim and therefore should be dismissed.

CONCLUSION

For all of the above reasons, Defendant Roe respectfully requests the Court dismiss Plaintiffs Amended Complaint against Roe in its entirety, because the Court lacks subject matter jurisdiction, and because Plaintiff's Amended Complaint failed to state a claim.

Respectfully Submitted,

JANE ROE, DEFENDANT
